

Optimising Your Teaching Tools Workshops

ADVANCING
LEARNING

Teaching and assessing writing at B1 and B2 levels.

By Richard Twigg

Invalsi: how to approach exam preparation in class and use other Language Qualifications to your advantage.

By Marco Colciago

Teaching students how to listen.

By Richard Twigg

14th February 2019- 8.30 am to 13.00 pm

Auditorium IIS Copernico-Luxemburg - Corso Caio Plinio, 2
Torino

 macmillan
education

 MONDADORI
EDUCATION

8.30 - Registration

9.00 - Introduction

9.15 - Session 1: Teaching and assessing writing at B1 and B2 levels. By Richard Twigg

Writing in English is probably the weakest skill in Italy. With this in mind, the session will look at ways of teaching and assisting students with this "forgotten skill". In order to be able to fully support your students, you also need to be familiar with the marking/grading criteria in the tests/exams that your students will be taking.

10.15 - Session 2: Invalsi: how to approach exam preparation in class and use other Language Qualifications to your advantage. By Marco Colciago

The Invalsi test is a "standard" test, very similar to those that have been used for many years now in the anglo-saxon education system. How can we prepare students for it? What are the similarities with other Language Qualifications that students might have already obtained and how can we use them to our advantage?

11.00 Coffee break

11.30 - Session 3: Teaching students how to listen. By Richard Twigg

Listening is often seen as a passive skill and hence some believe it is not possible to actively teach students how to listen. In this session we will look at how this can be done and why students sometimes have difficulty in hearing and hence understanding everything that they hear.

Per iscrizioni:

www.mondadorieducation.it/OptimisingTeachingTools_TO

Agenzia Informascuola: informascuolatorino@gmail.com

Segreteria Tel. 340 871 7110